

John Edward Campbell

---

John Edward Campbell (MS, University of Massachusetts – Amherst, 2001) is a doctoral candidate at the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania and an instructor in new media at the University of Minnesota. His research examines the commodification of communities in cyberspace as well as the integration of emerging media technologies into the negotiation of everyday life. His book, Getting It On Online; Cyberspace, Gay Male Sexuality, and Embodied Identity, was published by Haworth Press in 1994.